Nashville Chapter ▽ American Guild of Organists ▽ December, 2008

<http://www.nashvilleago.org>

FROM THE DEAN

Dear Members:

At some point during this season every year, I recall a church youth director leading us through the ACTS of prayer. In this scenario T represents Thanksgiving. Learning the process of giving thanks created an awareness of how fortunate I am and we are as a nation. This has certainly contributed to November becoming my favorite season of the year — beginning with All Saints Day and leading up to Thanksgiving Day.

Our chapter has a long list in the thanksgiving category. I continually hear from guests and new members as to how great our chapter is and how we are so fortunate to have such a welcoming and active group. For this we are thankful. Our chapter saints before us set some consistent standards and continue to influence our journey together.

This chapter would not be possible if we did not have our current members continually stepping up to the plate to cover all the activities and details which make us one of the best AGO chapters. While we could be proud of this, we should be more thankful we are able to advance what we love to do most as musicians, which is playing the organ and directing choirs. Let's keep this in mind, especially as we head to hosting the 2012 National Convention.

Best wishes for you and your family and friends during this season.

In thanksgiving,

Dr. William R. Taylor
Dean

GREET THE SEASON WITH THE BELMONT CHAMBER SINGERS

The Belmont Chamber Singers will help us welcome the Christmas season joyfully with an a cappella concert on Monday, December 1, at 7:30 PM at the Cathedral of the Incarnation, 2015 West End Avenue in Nashville.

From start to finish, this select group of 25 young musicians trades the enhancements of our high-tech age for a simple, “unplugged” approach. Under the direction of Dr. Deen Entsminger, the ensemble learns, rehearses, and performs its repertoire with the utmost minimal reliance on musical instruments.

Rehearsals take shape as students arrange themselves in a broad circle and strike a tuning fork. On the foundation of this pure pitch alone, they build their song. In this environment, the contribution of each member is vital and the teacher serves as facilitator, nurturing and guiding the collective experience. The resulting music is especially gratifying for musicians and listeners alike.

Nashville Chapter will have its monthly dinner meeting at 6:30 PM, prior to the concert. Remember to request dinner reservations for yourself and any guests to Linda Winters by Tuesday, November 25 (dinnerago@bellsouth.net or 615-264-3430).

Join us to set the tone for the season in the acoustically glorious and spiritually uplifting sanctuary of the Cathedral!

Organ builders from across country visit city to view Austin pipe organ

 Online: Watch John Wigal play the Austin pipe organ.

By Susan Pierce
spierce@timesfreepress.com

The American Institute of Organbuilders held its national convention in Knoxville this week. On Thursday, 40 of the delegates took a field trip to Chattanooga to see a restoration of note.

The musicians and craftsmen came to hear Memorial Auditorium's restored 1924 Austin pipe organ, then they toured the organ's pipe chambers to view the historic renovation they had read about in trade industry magazines. Among the delegates was Bon Smith of Avon, Conn., president of Austin Organ Service.

Later that day, the organ builders visited Richards, Fowkes & Co. in Ooltewah for a shop tour, then traveled to Collegedale to hear Judy Glass play Southern Adventist University's Bombaugh organ.

"The American Institute of Organbuilders holds its conventions for the express reason to learn more about organs, view historic organs, hear lectures, take shop tours and study organ technique," said Randall Dyer of Jefferson City, Tenn., convention chairman.

"The Austin organ is a historically significant organ that's been rebuilt by one of our own members," he said, referring to Dennis Milnar of Milnar Organ Co.

John Wigal plays the Memorial Auditorium Austin pipe organ.

The city's concert organ is unique in that it was designed by famed organist Edwin Lemare.

The restoration was a 20-year project of the Chattanooga Music Club, chaired by Evelyn Gibbs. More than $770,000 was raised through private donations, grants and city funding. The restored organ is valued at more than $2 million. It is the only organ of its kind remaining in the Southeast.

The visitors heard John Wigal perform six pieces that demonstrated the many colors of the organ. Then they were invited to climb the 115 steps into the pipe chambers to examine the restoration work and talk shop with Mr. Milnar.

THE EXPERTS' OPINIONS

"I came because it's not often you see such a large pipe organ in an auditorium. It's a big concert organ not to be in a church. The pipe organ is the king of instruments."
— David Richards, Valencia, Pa.

"I like to see as much variety in organs as I can. The more I see gives me ideas how I should build my instruments — the old can teach the new. It is rare to see such a restoration."
— Joseph Solt, Mountaintop, Pa.

"I worked for 38 years for Austin, so I had to see how the old organ looked. The fact they got it repaired is remarkable. This restoration should set an example for other cities."
— Fred Heffner, Granby, Conn.
